

Loyola Wins One-Act Play Contest

This is a scene from the Emperor's Doll which was presented on campus, Friday, February 18 and in the Province eliminations on Monday February 21. Left to right are: Kuhn, Mainolfi (sitting), Fitz-Simmons, Penn and Fields.

The Loyola College Mask and Rapier society took first place in the One-Act Play Contest of the Maryland Province. They presented the one-act play, The Emperor's Doll.

The Province eliminations were held on February 21, at Georgetown University. Besides Loyola, Scranton, Georgetown and St. Joseph's College participated. The rules of the contest limited the time to thirty-five minutes. Loyola just barely made it.

A Living Doll

Kitty Kelly, from Mt. St. Agnes, had the title role, while Ray Gaeng took the male lead. The play was set in Japan and concerned a doll-maker by the name of Matsuri (John Kuhn) who was commissioned by the Emperor to create a life-size doll. When the job was completed, the doll, (Kitty Kelly), came to life. Matsuri's son, (Ray Penn) falls in love with the creation, much to the displeasure of the Emperor. According to Kabuki tradition, the play employed a limited amount of scenery and elaborate makeup.

Mari-Gras Cancelled

The supporting cast included Betty Lambie, Dan FitzSimmons, Bob Dunn, Bill McKenna, Jim Lombardi, John Kenny, Jerry Leahy, Ferd Mainolfi and Lee Russo. Drue Grevenber was director of choreography.

The Emperor's Doll was presented for the benefit of Loyola Students on Friday, February 18, in Cohn Auditorium. The previously scheduled Mardi-Gras dance was cancelled because of the game the following night with Mt. St. Mary's at Emmitsburg. In place of it, a workshop discussion followed. The purpose of this was to give the audience a chance to present their views and criticisms to the dramatists so that they could anticipate the reaction of the judges in the Provincial eliminations.

IRC Delegates Go To Jersey

The IRC will send two delegates, Sam Ady and Bob McGrain, to a Foreign Policy Conference at St. Peter's College in Jersey City on Saturday, February 26. The delegates will be accompanied by the IRC moderator, Dr. Harry W. Kirwin.

The general topic of the conference will be the Far East. Four separate discussion groups will be held during the course of the day. Topics discussed will be: Relation of Mao's government with the Soviet Union, Formosan Strait dispute, India, and SEATO. NSA and NFCCS will participate in the conference, as well as New England and Middle Atlantic Schools.

Guest Speakers

At the Plenary Session to be held late in the afternoon or in the evening, results of the discussion groups will be brought before the assembled delegates. After these questions have been resolved, two guest speakers, one American and one foreign will take the platform. When the delegates return home they will make a report to the rest of the IRC members.

Annual Lecture Series To Run Mar. 13, 20, 27

Mr. Charles A. Fecher, Congressman Martin Dies and Mr. Frank J. Sheed will be the guest speakers of the annual Gorman Lecture Series, which will be held in Cohn Hall on three successive Sundays, March 13, 20 and 27 at 8:00 P.M.

Tickets for the entire series will be sold at the price of $1.50, while tickets for individual lectures will be $1.00 each. Holders of season tickets may bring a friend for an additional fifty cents.

The series, named after the Rev. Lawrence C. Gorman, S.J., former Dean of the College, has been a regular spring feature at Loyola for several years.

"America Looks Ahead"

The first lecture will be given by Mr. Charles A. Fecher, a well known Baltimore author. He will speak on "Jacques Maritain, Christian Philosopher".

Congressman Martin Dies will give the second talk of the series on March 20. His topic will be "America Looks Ahead".

Born in Colorado City, Texas, Congressman Dies is the son of the Hon. Martin Dies, Sr. who was a member of Congress from Texas from 1908 to 1919.

Committee Chairman

He was elected consecutively from the Seventy-second to the Seventy-eighth Congresses, 1931 to 1945. During his service in Congress he was a member of various committees. In 1938 he introduced the resolution to create the Special Committee to investigate Un-American Activities. He served as chairman of this special committee, which was renewed from year to year until January 1945. He then voluntarily retired from Congress to practice law.

He was elected Congressman-at-large to the Eighty-third Congress in 1952 and re-elected in 1954.

Co-Founder of Sheed and Ward

Mr. Frank J. Sheed, noted author, lecturer and co-founder of the publishing house of Sheed & Ward, will deliver the final lecture of the series on March 27. His topic will be, "The Failure of Higher Education".

Mr. Sheed was born and educated in Australia, where he graduated from Sydney University in Arts and Law.

On coming to England, however, he decided not to practice law, but instead founded a Catholic publishing house which aims at presenting Catholicism positively and at being a medium of expression for the whole Catholic world.

Noted Lecturer

In 1926, with his wife, Maisie Ward, he established the London house of Sheed & Ward. The American house was founded in 1933.

In addition to translating some dozen works, including The Confessions of St. Augustine, Mr. Sheed has written several books of his own—A Map of Life, Communism and Man, Theology and Sanity, Nullity of Marriage and Society and Sanity.

Besides writing and publishing, Mr. Sheed has for over thirty years been a speaker of the Westminster Evidence Guild.

Evergreen Annual Honors Fr. Beatty

The Evergreen staff announced today that the yearbook will be dedicated to the Rev. Vincent F. Beatty, S.J., assistant professor of chemistry. In announcing the choice, Jim Durkan, Editor-in-chief of the book, described Father Beatty as "the typical small college teacher, a man who believes in close student-instructor relations."

Father Beatty is an advocate of small colleges and, as such, has done much to boost Loyola. Some years ago, he was instrumental in establishing a night school course in nuclear physics. The course, sponsored by the AEC, was well received and served to enhance Loyola's prestige in the community.

Applying his intense interest in student welfare to the practical plane, Father Beatty has helped many graduates of Loyola to establish themselves in the post-college world. Students in need of employment or graduate school appointments have found him to be a ready counsellor and constant source of encouragement.

Fairness and Lucidity

Father Beatty's fairness and lucidity in the classroom have earned him the respect and admiration of his students. This academic phase of his activity is, perhaps, the most important from the students point of view, and proved to be one of the deciding factors in making him the choice of the yearbook staff.

Other announcements by Durkan indicate that the yearbook will be fitting monument to Father Beatty and the Senior Class. Art work by Dick Wheeler will feature an aerial outline sketch of the campus. Each section of the yearbook will be introduced by a divider bearing an enlarged extract from the front-piece. It is felt that this artistic device will provide the book with a unique unity.

Finances Improved

The financial picture has brightened considerably in recent weeks. In response to patron slips mailed out to a long list of should-be supporters, more of the money needed for publication has been received. Ad receipts, too, have picked up. The pecuniary pickle is not yet dilled, however. More ads, sponsors and patrons are needed before the yearbook can become a published reality.

Debaters Visit Kings College

Four Loyola debaters journeyed to Kings College in Wilkes-Barre, Pa., over the week-end to participate in the Kings Tournament. Tom Burch, Dan Mackey, Dan Fall and Paul Rogers were the speakers.

The affirmative team of Mackey and Rogers won two and lost two debates at the tourney, defeating Scranton and Lehigh. Negative speakers Fall and Burch won three debates, overcoming Seton Hall, Lafayette, and Hopkins while losing only to the traditionally strong St. Peter's team. The Loyola team finished with a 5 win-3 lost record.

Loyola has also participated in several league debates in the past few weeks. Jim O'Hara and Hal Sanks defeated Trinity in Washington on February 8 and Sam Ady and Tom Burch defeated Catholic University two days later.

Debate president John Torney has announced that he and three others—Wynne White, Jerry Frese and Bob Heymann—will attend the Brooklyn College Debate Tourney in March.

In league debates scheduled this week, Sam Ady and John Torney will debate Georgetown today, and Jim O'Hara and Hal Sanks will meet the Georgetown School of Foreign Service tomorrow. The team has also scheduled two debates with Morgan State next Tuesday.

Big Debate On Tap

The Loyola-Georgetown debate which will be held today is extremely important to the standings of the league. Loyola will go into the debate undefeated in contests for the league trophy; while Georgetown, with only two losses, is in second place.

Debating Society president John Torney is currently arranging several home-and-home debates. He is also completing Loyola's tournament schedule.

Rev. Vincent F. Beatty, S.J.

There is still time and need for increased student support. Durkan stressed that room is still available for additional ads. The financial benefit which would accrue to student salesmen has been noted in The Greyhound in past issues. It is conceivable that small fortunes still can be made before publication day, which will be sometime in late May.

Near Completion

Durkan also announced that the Senior and Faculty sections of the Annual are now completed while the Activities and Underclassman sections are near completion. The one section which is not near completion yet is the Sport section. This is being held for final results on the Basketball Season. The entire book should go to press about March 1.

Loyolans are also reminded that they will be able to have their own copies of The Evergreen upon payment of the five dollar cover-to-cover charge.

A GROUP OF SENIORS from Calvert Hall visit the Chapel while touring the campus here. Seniors from several local schools have paid Loyola a visit to examine the facilities before deciding about the college they wish to attend.

Meetings And Activities Keep Faculty At Work

Loyola's faculty members are active in many fields outside their regular school work.

Father Hoggson attended the Regional Meeting of Jesuit Deans at Holy Cross College, Worcester, Mass., on December 19-20; the Convention of Academic Deans and the Association of American Colleges meetings in Washington, D.C., on January 11-13.

At the latter meeting, President Eisenhower spoke on the problems facing higher education in America today.

Fr. Joseph Maxwell, S.J., President of Boston College, was elected President of the Association for the year.

Book Reviews Published

The following faculty members have had book reviews appear recently in the Catholic Review: Dr. Harry W. Kirwin, Mr. Francis L. Christ and Mr. Vincent J. Colimore.

Mr. Colimore has also recently had a poem accepted by the National Poetry Association in a nationwide contest for teachers.

Mr. H. Charles Staley successfully completed his Ph.D. comprehensives at the University of Pennsylvania recently.

The Rev. J. Eugene Gallery, S.J., was on the Executive Committee in charge of the panel on the "Man and His Years" program held recently at the Baltimore Museum of Art.

Father Gallery also gave a brief talk at the banquet of the Maryland State Conference on Industrial Credit which was held recently in Baltimore.

Father Knott Speaks

The Rev. Francis X. Knott, S.J., will speak next month at the annual High School Sodality Convention to be held at the Catholic High School. His topic will be "The Sodalist in School."

Father John E. Wise, S.J., was recently elected vice-chairman of Baltimore Community Educational Television, Inc. The purpose of this enterprise is to afford educational programs on local T.V. stations.

Father Joseph A. d'Inviillers, S.J., spoke at Hamilton Junior High School on February 21. His topic was "Brotherhood."

Tormey And Baker Discuss Classical Theories And Poets

In a talk before the Classics Academy, John Tormey described how early Greek science evolved until the time of Socrates. The talk was given at a meeting on February 9.

Modern Theories

The first of the Greek scientists was Thales. From him descended a line of thinkers who anticipated many of the most spectacular theories of modern science. Anaximander described the evolution of man from a fish. Anaxamines conceived the idea of condensation and rarification. Democritus developed the atomic theory. "Such an outburst of scientific activity was not to be seen again for almost two thousand years of Western history," concluded Tormey.

Baker Next Speaker

Bob Baker will speak at the next meeting of the Academy on the Epicurean philosopher-poet Lucretius.

Being planned for the second semester is a series of talks by members of the Academy. New members are invited to sit in on these meetings, which require no formal training in the classics.

Eta Sigma Phi, the honorary classics fraternity within the Classics Academy, will soon convene to elect new members to the local chapter.

Missa Recitata Now Permitted At Loyola

The Junior Sodality has received permission from Archbishop Francis P. Keough to use the Missa Recitata for student Mass in the Evergreen Chapel. The Sodality feels that this system will allow the students to better participate with the priest in the offering of the Mass and increase their attention. Members of the Sodality will lead in the recitation of the Missa Recitata which will begin at First Friday Mass in March.

The Sodality has announced that the Queen's Ball will be held on Saturday, May 7, in the Gym. The Debonnaires will provide the music for the semi-formal affair. The intended theme of the dance is "Our Lady of Evergreen" because of its significance for the month of May.

Dr. Freimuth--Poisonous Expert In The Classroom

Give your imagination a little leeway and it could, no doubt, conjure up a most morbid picture frame for a portrait of Dr. Henry C. Freimuth, member of the Loyola Chemistry Department and renowned poison expert for the City Morgue. Yet the fast-moving professor finds his work not gruesome at all; he even enjoys it.

In his youth, Dr. Freimuth attended the public schools of New York City and later graduated from the College of the City of New York with a B.S. in chemistry. His interest in things scientific led him to secure a Masters degree and, in 1938, a Ph.D. at the New York University. His thesis was on carbon monoxide poisoning.

Joins F.B.I.

The fellowships and research assistantships which he held afforded him enough experience to qualify for a position with the F.B.I. as a Special Agent and Analytical Chemist, a job he held for over five years. He then took over the position of Toxicologist at the office of the Chief Medical Examiner of Maryland. In 1945 he began teaching at Loyola.

Recalling his days with the F.B.I. in Washington, Dr. Freimuth chuckles over an anecdote which illustrates the value of the education which we so earnestly strive for.

Poisonous Foliage

One day he was asked to determine if some leaves had toxic material on them. Feeling it wise to have the leaves identified first, the good doctor spent the better part of one morning seeking out local botany experts for their advice. After drawing several blanks, he found out from one learned individual (who looked it up in a reference book) that they were chrysanthemum leaves.

Returning to his laboratory, he set the jar of leaves on a table. Nearby there was a painter working at a window. Noticing the jar, the painter exclaimed "Hey, look at all chrysanthemum leaves, will ya!"

A prolific experimenter and writer, Dr. Freimuth has contributed twenty papers to national medical and scientific journals. A joiner, he holds membership and office in half a dozen scientific societies, among them the American Chemical Society, the American Association for the Advancement of Science and the American Academy of Forensic Sciences.

Holds Many Posts

This father of five is no amateur in the realm of pedagogy. While still in school at N.Y.U. he held a teaching fellowship. As a recognized expert in the field of toxicology and crime detection, he has lectured to thousands of Justice Department personnel, police and medical students.

In addition to his post at the Medical Examiner's office he is Assistant Professor of Legal Medicine at the University of Maryland Medical School and a visiting lecturer at the Harvard Medical School. He has been called to court to give scientific testimony in forty-six states.

With this broad experience gained from lecturing and experimental work, Dr. Freimuth continues to bring to his classes the very latest techniques.

There is scarcely a chemistry course at the College which he has not taught at some time. This semester he is giving the lectures in Quantitative Analysis. Synchomores beware; he is a fiend on significant figures!

Regional Rally Planned For NSA

A Mason-Dixon Regional conference of the NSA will be held for two days sometime in April. A College Editors' Conference, as well as a Student Council Presidents' Conference will take place on the first day.

The Mason-Dixon region voted unanimously February 6 for the proposal on implementation of the Supreme Court's decision on segregation, a proposal adopted at the national NSA Congress in August of last year.

Tom Bureh, Loyola's Senior delegate, and Jerry Kauper, Junior delegate, will represent Loyola at the NSA Conference at Mount Saint Agnes.

ASN Tutoring Group Ready For Freshmen

With the beginning of the school year, Alpha Sigma Nu, the Jesuit Honor Fraternity, announced a program that was open to all incoming freshmen. The program consisted primarily in helping the entering freshmen to become proficient in college life and to offer them a friend to whom they could turn. This help was to be given in the form of a tutoring service. At the announcement of this service quite a few seemed interested, but at the present time only two are participating in the program.

Upperclassmen Tutor

As the program exists now, any freshman who wishes additional help in his scholastic work, free of charge, tutored by one of the upperclassmen, should leave his name in the Registrar's Office with a copy of his schedule. If someone is having trouble with Latin or English, Lee Russo or Hal Sanks would be more than glad to be of assistance; Dick Hunt with math, Ray Gaeng with accounting, or Ralston Russell with chemistry.

If a student is having trouble with some other subject, an instructor versed in that subject will be provided. The operations are set up so that the tutoring can be taken for the whole last semester or for just one particular phase of a course, at the convenience of the student and student instructor. If the student is having difficulty in some religious matter or feels that he is not reaping the full benefits from a course, A.S.N. would be willing to intervene.

Friendship Airport Scene Of Jr. Prom

Arrangements for the Junior Prom to be held in the Friendship Airport Ballroom, April 22, are almost complete, declared co-chairmen Wayne White and Tom Feri-cot.

Next year's seniors will dance to Carl Hamilton's eleven-piece orchestra in the Ballroom's nightclub atmosphere.

Ticket Manager Larry D'Orazio announced that tickets for the formal affair will go on sale in the near future. As yet the price has not been determined. Other arrangements for the affair have been handled by a committee comprised of Jack Doetzer, Mick Mohler and Denny Roth.

Fick Intramural Mogul; Kuhn Bewhiskered Actor

If Hamlet were around today, he and senior John Kuhn would probably get along fine. For John's motto also seems to be: "The play's the thing . . ."

John came to the College from Blakefield where he was an active member of such activities as the French Club and the quarterly magazine, and where, says he, "I almost got an honor card once."

At Evergreen, his participation in extracurricular activities has been impressive. He is or has been a member of the History Academy, the Classics Academy and the Evergreen Quarterly. About this last publication he says rather sorrowfully, "They haven't published my good stuff." What this "good stuff" was he failed to say.

Mask and Rapier Regular

But, John's favorite pastime on campus seems to have been "to hold the mirror up to nature." He's done this in all but one of the Mask and Rapier's Society productions over the last four years. His reason for missing the one; "My arm got tired holding up that mirror."

Proof positive of his position among Loyola's thespians was his election as president of the Dramatic Society last spring. Like all actors, John doesn't like hams, although, in his humility, he won't exclude himself from that category.

Radio Star

Not confining his talents to the reaches of Evergreen, John moves south in the summer, where he assumes his position of utility man for station WRNL, the ABC affiliate in Richmond. He also works for the promotion department of the News Post, trying to boost the sales of that paper. This job, he insists, does not consist of selling papers on the corner of Lexington and Baltimore streets.

As an A.R. English major, he claims the honor of having made the "Dean's other list."

After graduation, John looks forward to some summer stock in 1955, and then a career in the theatre and/or radio and T.V.

Around Loyola, John is perhaps most famous for the beards he grows from time to time. Let this be a warning to the freshmen: if you see a bearded man walking the corridors, don't buy him a razor; buy a ticket to his next play.

Many say that today is an age of uncertainty and indecision. But either senior Ed Fick doesn't know this or doesn't care. He knows where, when, why, how and with whom he's going in life.

Ed received his earlier education at Little Flower and at Loyola High School, where he was an Academic Course student and one of the most ardent members of the Boosters Club.

Intramural Mogul

At Evergreen, Ed has become noted for his interest in the intramural athletic program. He has, in the last few years managed a number of championship teams.

Among these were the bowling and softball champs. This year he is serving as Loyola's Commissioner of Intramural Athletics. In this job, he sees to it that the large and diversified intramural program runs along smoothly. Recently he caused a ripple when he published his own version of touch football rules. Ed also maintains order at all Management Club meetings, as Sergeant at Arms of that organization.

Summertime finds Ed sharing his time between the brewery (working that is) and summer camp with the local Army Reserve Unit.

Future As Accountant

In June, armed with a Bachelor's degree in accounting and a Certified Public Accountant certificate, Ed will waltz into a job with Ernst and Ernst, Inc., an accounting firm which operates locally, nationally and even internationally. This job helps to explain the hat which is Ed's constant companion. As he puts it, "The hat goes with the job; everybody at Ernst and Ernst wears a hat."

After June 25, Ed's Bachelor of Science degree will be something of a misnomer. On that date he will marry Miss Priscilla Joseph.

Although sure of himself, Ed evidently has his doubts about others, especially some of his instructors. Now famous in his constant query of teachers; "Are you sure of that?"

Varied Musical Fare Presented By Hi-Fi Group

The wonders of high fidelity sound reproduction have lured many students to the Music Club meetings held in the Xavier Lounge each Friday at 2:00 P.M. Club membership is constantly increasing, the number having reached thirty-five to date.

Eight 33 1/4 rpm, twelve inch records have been given by members. Others have been ordered, and the collection is expected to total over twenty by the end of May.

The following works are now in possession of the club: Puccini's La Boheme, Beethoven's Symphony No. 5 in C Minor and the Emperor Concerto, Ravel's Bolero, Rimsky-Korsakov's Capriccio Espagnole, Sibelius' Finlandia, Hayden's Surprise Symphony, Mozart's Symphony No. 40 in G Minor and Mendelssohn's A Midsummer Night's Dream.

First semester activities reached a climax in December when the group held a special meeting dedicated to Christmas music. Refreshments were served to the members present.

Plans are being formulated for a social event this semester. The nature and details of the event will be announced later.

All have been invited to attend the informal meetings held every Friday afternoon in the Lounge.

Nellies Appointed NFCCS Chairman

Hal Sanks, Regional Forensics Commission Chairman and Larry Awalt, Loyola's Senior NFCCS Delegate attended a Regional Meeting held recently at Mount St. Agnes College. George Nellies, who also attended, was named to succeed Hal Sanks in the Forensics Chair located here.

At this conference plans were furthered for the Regional Conference, to be held April 2 at Notre Dame.

On this occasion the highlight of the Baltimore-Washington Region's activity this year, leaders of campus organizations will have the opportunity to meet with their opposite numbers of the other eleven schools in the region and to discuss their common problems.

Some of the panels available will be: IRC, Forensics, Newspaper Editors and Student Government. These sessions will consume the greater part of the day and will be followed by a plenary session summing up the day's activity.

The NFCCS lately received recognition of its work from the Holy See, which has announced that new opportunities of gaining indulgences are available to members. As a result, there are twenty days on which students may gain Plenary Indulgences under the normal conditions. The next such date is February 27, the feast of St. Gabriel of the Sorrowful Mother. Dates will be given advance notice in the Greyhound Bulletin.

Since February Has Been . . .

. . . designated as Catholic Press Month, we feel that some thoughts on that subject might be in order. Despite the fact that we want our circulation to continue at its present level, we feel obliged to mention that there are other publications that deserve our reader's attention. There are numerous Catholic newspapers, notably our own Catholic Review, a multitude of Catholic periodicals, and a plethora of Catholic books published every year in the United States but the Catholic Press, as such, is not felt in the same way that it is in other countries. The Christian Science Monitor, for example, carries more weight than any organ of the Catholic Press even though the Christian Scientists are fewer in number and have a lesser degree of theological unity than does the Catholic Church.

Why? We cannot give you an accurate or authoritative answer but we do think that there are two factors that help to keep this condition of ineffectiveness existing. The first and most important is that Catholics do not read Catholic publications. Somehow or another, the enemies of the Catholic Church in the United States, have gotten across their idea that whatever is printed in a Catholic publication must be one-sided or colored by Catholic dogma. This idea exists even among Catholic college students. It is patently false and ridiculous. Catholic writers are devoted to truth and would not be allowed to print anything that was not truth for this would be in direct contradiction to Catholic dogma. Yet many of our own people still feel that whatever appears under an imprimatur must be a sermon in disguise. To these people we say that truth is objective and cannot be colored by any honest person even if he is Catholic. In regard to those writings which are not a mere recitation of facts, but which contain the current Catholic opinion on a subject, we say that nothing is more important to the Catholic who lives his religion than that he should know the thoughts of the leading Catholic writers on any subject, whether or not he agrees with them.

The second condition which hinders the Catholic Press from exerting its proportionate amount of influence is that it is not unified but exists on a diocesan plane. These periodicals which exist on a national scale, are in direct competition with one another and no one of them is able to build up sufficient circulation to speak for the Catholic Church in America as a whole. This situation could be remedied by reorganizing and consolidating some of the periodicals and building up the circulation on a national scale. This, however, is something that will take some time to accomplish.

For the present, we would urge at least the Catholic college student to look into some of the Catholic periodicals, journals and newspapers that can be found in the Library or on any magazine rack. The Greyhound exhibit in the foyer of the Library Building will give you some idea of the selection available. Take a look—you will be surprised at the objectivity and truth that you will find!

Primary Elections For City . . .

. . . offices will be held on March 1 by both parties. Normally, Republican candidates are not too important in this city, with a registration more than two to one in favor of the Democrats and the hierarchy of the Republican Party somewhat less than unanimous in its actual support of candidates. Hence little mention need be made at this time of the various nominees of that party. We do feel that the constant attempts on the part of some Democratic candidates to becloud the issues merits our attention.

Mayor D'Alesandro has served the City of Baltimore faithfully and well for eight years. More strides have been made in the solving of the city's traffic, housing, redevelopment and parking problems than had been made for decades before his administration. The efforts to smear his record with issues that are irrelevant to the administration of the municipal government should be countered by objective weighing of the evidence on the part of the citizenry. Let the voters look at the number of new schools, the new markets, the new parking facilities, the number of city streets that have been resurfaced, the new street lights, the general cleanliness of the city, the new stadium and the numerous other signs of the city's growth and development under the direction of Mayor D'Alesandro and then ask themselves what the issues are in this election! We are not maintaining that there have been no mistakes or errors. The city administration is only human. We only wish to point out that a good job has been done so far, and those who attack the administration should have facts and not just glittering generalities.

Water Lack Jeopardizes Weekly Bath

by Charles A. Wunder

Man's historic inability to sway the whims of weather has brought about a serious water shortage in the Baltimore area. Since the future holds little hope of emancipating man from the weather, it behooves the enlightened to pursue positive action in this regard; in short, the prohibition of the Saturday night bath. This will be no easier than the enforcement of the late Noble Experiment, but a glance toward the deodorant ads will show that high octane sprays and ointments have reduced the bath to a mere civilized affectation.

Bootleg Bath Water

Not only will a great volume of water be conserved, but the effect of the law will produce radical changes on the American scene. Thousands of "vintage Twenty" stills will cough into operation; "bath easies" and bootleg bath water will take up the slack in the unemployed. Soap, a classic irritant to boyhood, will become extinct. In fact, a pair of sullied ears will be symbols of patriotism; and dirt the mark of an American.

The change will mark the beginning of a housewives' millennium. The dormant bathtub will become a winter storage space for the lawnmower and garden hose. Punch can be mixed and excess hair-dye stored in the bowl. The bathtub ring will take its place next to the mustache cup and horse-drawn carriage. While the cobwebs are festooning the laundry doors, clothing stores will hire the displaced persons. Dior will replace the tweedy look with the seedy look.

Mud Flinging Fashionable

Most important will be the transformation in political tactics and epithets. The smear campaign will be accepted; mud slinging will be fashionable, and politicians will campaign on the strength of their odor. Washington will assume more patriotic connotations, and the Ancient Order of the Bath will be revived.

The Bible will be reworded to make cleanliness next to treason; holy water will be replaced with holy dirt. Transgressors of the law will be called "filth amendment" colonists. The entire national philosophy will be altered.

The economic implications are, however, less appealing. Men who formerly lived off the fat of the land in soap factories will find themselves cast out of work. Of course the deodorant industry would swell in smell and size. A "Dirty Gertie" will arise to step into Carrie Nation's shoes, and once again illegality will be the fad.

All this leads us to think that slowly but surely we are exhausting objects capable of being prohibited. As each generation takes upon itself the outlawry of a noxious social sore, the day will inevitably come when nothing but war will remain.

Like bathwater, this hope has historically gone down the drain, only to be revived when man sees the "ring" left in the political tub. Each post-war period finds him voicing this hope, and each new war illustrates the futility of his actions.

Your Student Council

MAURICE BOZEL, PRES.

At the last Student Council meeting, the president of each organization gave a brief synopsis of his particular club's activities. The reports were extremely favorable. It was indeed heartening to hear of the unprecedented successes of the extracurricular activities.

Nevertheless, it was pointed out that a problem still exists in coordinating the student body to promote and attend the major affairs, such as Glee Club concerts, dramatic presentations and basketball games. It's up to each and everyone of us to improve this situation; so how about it?

The Council is deeply indebted to Pat McDonough, Ferd Mainolfi, John Beck, Brian Varacalle, Chas. Krnuse, Ed Rankin, Ken Lee and John Yeager for their contribution to school spirit. At the expense of much hard work and their personal time, they formed a reputable Dixieland band. They certainly deserve a big vote of appreciation.

Recently, the Council received a letter from the Dean in answer to several requests. He approved the installation of a juke box in the Rec Room, urged the faculty members to take a more active interest in student activities and exhorted the faculty to alleviate the problem of multiple tests on the same day.

Exemptions Considered

The Council also requested that students that have an A average in any course be exempted from final examinations. This request is still under consideration.

Finally, the student body can be sure that the Council is doing everything in its power for the betterment of student interests.

Maurice Bozel,
President

Ideal Cabinet Seen By Pula

By Boh Pula

What with election time upon us again, I think a few thoughts on government are in order. Let me begin by stating that I am for government. Anarchy lost its seductiveness for me when I discovered that my physical growth has stopped at the five-foot-six mark. Not possessing the military propensities of a Bonaparte, I have developed into a convinced proponent of order.

Now, just how should this order be accomplished? We have seen many attempts at achieving the ideal in government. These, ranging from benevolent and despotic dictatorship through all the shades of power to the modern chaos of French parliamentarianism, have proved largely abortive.

Of Jobs And Men

To my knowledge, however, no real attempt at establishing a Platonic or Hamiltonian aristocracy of brains has ever been made. Governments have never achieved a totally appropriate matching of the man and the job.

Substituting the term talent for brains, I invite you to consider the following list of names and offices. Keep in mind, please, that this list is the fruit of many years of careful study and thought.

Waide Howley steals the ball from a Washington College player in the game at Evergreen. In the background is Bill Brown. Loyola won the game by a score of 94-70.

Jays Here Tonight; MSM Trips Cagers

Tonight, Loyola's battling Hounds will play the Bluejays of Johns Hopkins at Evergreen. This is the second match between the two teams, Loyola having won the first by a score of 75-61. Game time is 8:45.

Saturday, American University will end the Greyhound's regular season in the Evergreen Gym. Loyola beat the Eagles in overtime earlier.

The front-runners from Evergreen were finally turned back by Mount Saint Mary's last Saturday night in Emmitsburg, by a 79-71 score. Jack Sullivan was the deciding factor in the Saints' victory. The 6'4" sophomore poured in thirty-five points with his deadly hook and push shots. Sal Angelo, the rough, aggressive Mountie center, played an excellent game under the boards while Ed Bals, 5'8" guard, hit consistently on his long, overhead sets.

Not One-Sided

The game, however, was not a one sided contest by any means. Loyola overcame an early deficit to take the halftime lead, 34-32. Jim Staiti played a fine game, keeping the Hounds in the running during the first half. Charlie McCullough, although well guarded, still managed to get the majority of the rebounds and score eighteen points. Jim Allenbaugh, Bill Brown and Gene Grimes also carried a good deal of the burden.

Defense Loosens

In the waning moments of the game, the Green and Grey seemed to loosen their defense in an effort to overcome the St. Mary's advantage, gained early in the fourth period. This defeat, although it leaves Loyola with as many losses in conference play as the Mount, gives Mt. St. Mary's the title since they have played more league games.

Tourney Coming

As it appears, however, these teams will meet again in the M-D Tournament on March 3, 4 and 5. It is almost a predetermined fact that the winner of this game will cop the tourney honors, since the other six teams to enter will be considerably weaker.

Terrors Downed

Last Thursday, Loyola knocked off a hustling Western Maryland quintet, 85-62. McCullough led the scoring with fourteen points. Staiti followed him with thirteen and Dodi garnered seven.

Loyola won its fourth straight game and the eighth out of its last nine, when it defeated the Pencocks of St. Peter's College by a score of 83-74. The game was played at Evergreen on Tuesday, February 15. Charlie McCullough finally found himself on the foul line as he sank twelve of fifteen while garnering twenty-eight points.

Tough Contest

The game was close for the first thirty minutes, but Harp Fitzgerald, who scored fourteen points in the second half, and Gene Grimes started hitting, thus the Hounds pulled away from the Jersey team. Jim Staiti was the only other Hound to hit double figures. Bernie Cicirelli led the losers with eighteen.

Hounds Down Washington

The Shoremen from Washington College did not provide much opposition for the Hounds as they were routed by a score of 94-70. This game was played at Evergreen on Saturday, February 12. The Greyhounds got off to their usual slow start, but by midway in the first half they had the game under control. At halftime, the Hounds were winging along with a 40-28 lead.

Allenbaugh Hits

Jim Allenbaugh collected twenty-five points and Charlie McCullough twenty-one as the Hounds upped their season record to a creditable 12-6 log. All in all, twelve Loyola players hit the scoring column. Jack Bergen of Washington led all scorers for the night as he netted twenty-seven points.

Loyola's varsity basketballers made it three in a row when they defeated the Bluejays of Johns Hopkins by a score of 75-61. The game was played on Thursday, February 10, at Homewood. This partly revenged the 69-66 setback suffered by the Hounds at the hands of Hopkins last year.

The game was close in the first half as Hopkins jumped off to an early 4-0 lead. It was not until 7:45 when Waide Howley hit on two foul shots that Loyola gained the lead. The Greyhounds built up this lead to 17-13 at the ten minute mark on the shooting of Charlie McCullough, and when the halftime buzzer sounded, the score was 35-28 Loyola.

Hopkins Closes Gap

When the Jays got seven points on seven straight foul shots, Hopkins closed the gap to a rather narrow 48-45. At this point, Harp Fitzgerald, Jerry Komin and Jim Allenbaugh grouped five baskets together to give the Hounds a commanding lead. From here on they simply coasted. High man for Loyola was Charlie McCullough with seventeen, followed by Jim Allenbaugh with sixteen and Harp Fitzgerald with ten.

Swimmers Sink Dickinson; Foos Individual Star

Winning seven out of the ten events, the Loyola swimmers defeated Dickinson College February 12 by a 48-36 score. The victory was the first for the Greyhound tankmen in four meets.

Loyola was led by sophomore Charlie Foos who won the 440-yard freestyle, placed second in the 100-yard freestyle and swam on the winning 400-yard relay team. Other first place finishers for Loyola were captain Larry Donegan, who won the 220-yard freestyle; Bernie Karpers, the 50-yard freestyle; Fred Schildwachter, the 100-yard freestyle; Frank Simansky, the 200-yard breaststroke and Elmer Medley in the diving event.

In previous meets the Hounds had lost to Villanova, Gustavus Adolphus and Georgetown. In the latter meet, on February 5, Loyola could win only three events as they bowed by a 27-57 score. The Loyola victories were scored by Frank Simansky, who won the 200-yard breast stroke and the 150-yard individual medley and Larry Donegan in the 440-yard freestyle.

Hounds Down Shepherd

Shepherd College from West Virginia was entertained by Loyola's natators last Thursday. In this meet, the Hounds posted their second victory of the season against non-conference opposition by defeating the visitors 34-27.

Loyola's four year win streak in the Mason-Dixon dual meets was brought to an end by the Cardinals of Catholic University when the Hounds were defeated by 43-41. This meet was swum last Saturday in Washington. Catholic U. took six first places in the ten meet event.

Elmer Medley, M-D defending diving champ, won this event again and in doing so piled up 55.10 points. Frank Simansky brought home the 120-yard-medley laurels, while Larry Donegan won the 440-yard swim and the relay team captured the 400-yard relays.

Ziernicki and Bogan were each double winners for the Cardinals.

Loyola will defend its Mason-Dixon Tournament title March 1-2 at American U. in Washington. Donegan, Medley and the 440-yard relay team are individual titlists.

Gans, Gorsuch Good Gunsmen

Loyola's Rifle Team is in the process of firing the third phase in the Second Army team match. The leading firers thus far for the Greyhounds are Irv Gans and Tom Gorsuch. Gorsuch fired a remarkable 100 in the first phase, sitting position.

It was announced at last week's meeting that there will only be two prize ribbons awarded this year, but the top fifteen members will receive silver rifles to wear on the regulation uniform.

In regular season matches, the team is scheduled to fire against Johns Hopkins and Gettysburg this week and fight a postal match against the University of Notre Dame sometime next week.

Capt. Shelton expects to resume campus practice within the month.

Much Improved Frosh To Face Jays Tonight

Tonight, preceeding the varsity game, the much improved Freshman cage team will take on the Hopkins Frosh for the second time this season. The junior Greyhounds handily won the first contest by a score of 70-53 and do not expect too much trouble this time.

Loyola Downs Hopkins

Denny McGuire finally came back into his own after an appendectomy. Paeing the Hounds with twenty-nine points, he was especially sharp from the outside. In this game, the team romped to a 75-61 victory. Other high scorers for the Hounds were Barry Goodhues, with eighteen, of which fourteen were from the foul line, and Jim Henneman with eleven.

The Naval Academy Preparatory School from Bainbridge, Maryland, visited Evergreen to play the Frosh. In this game, the Freshmen upped their season log to 5-7 as they defeated the potential middies by a score of 79-71. Bill Clark, rein fifteen points. Other leading scorers for the Hounds were Jack Cummings with twenty and Denny McGuire with eighteen.

In general, the team is operating much more smoothly. The second team has improved sufficiently to add a certain depth to the squad. Their previous inability to last in a game has been corrected, as can easily be seen in their recent string of victories.

Gaels Triumph

Mt. St. Joseph's high school, defending M.S.A. champs, brought their small, but high scoring unit to Evergreen on Tuesday, February 15 to face our Freshmen, and pulled an upset by defeating them 59-51. This was the second loss of the season inflicted on the Frosh by St. Joe.

The game was close throughout with St. Joe leading by only five points at halftime. Unlike their big brothers on the varsity, the Frosh displayed amazing accuracy on the foul line which kept them in the game. All totaled, they sank fifteen shots in eighteen attempts for an 84% average. Leading the junior Hounds in the scoring column was Jack Cummings with sixteen points.

The Western Maryland Frosh were the next regularly scheduled opponent for the Freshmen. In this game, the Green and Grey got back in the victory column by posting a close 66-64 win over the visitors. Jack Cummings again led Loyola with twenty-two points, followed by Denny McGuire with sixteen and Jim Henneman with twelve.

McGuire Tallies Thirty

In a rematch with their old rivals, Mt. St. Mary's the Loyola Frosh decisively defeated them again. This time the score was 80-70. The game was played last Saturday at Emmitsburg. Denny McGuire, 6'4" center had a tremendous night as he led the team by scoring thirty points, sixteen of which came from the foul line.

As usual, the game was close in the first half with the score tied at thirty apiece when the buzzer sounded. As soon as the second half began, the Frosh started to pull ahead. Joe Watkins, Jim Henneman and Jack Cummings led the Hounds in this surge. The floor play of Barry Goodhues was also an important factor. Excellent foul shooting on the part of Loyola kept them well ahead of the Mount. All in all, they sank a total of forty foul shots to twenty-two for the home team.

Calvert Hall favored to win the MSA title, lost here February 4, 60-55. McGuire, Cummings and Goodhues paced Loyola with twenty seven and eleven points, respectively.

Minnegan Directs Towson Athletics

by Gene Fink

This is the fifth in a series of articles about colleges and universities that Loyola meets in Mason-Dixon play.

This article spotlights a school in Baltimore County: Towson State Teacher's College.

In 1915 the college moved to its present site in the southern part of Towson, on York Road, one of the main thoroughfares connecting Baltimore with northern communities. The campus occupies seventy acres.

Minnegan Heads Sports

Under the guidance of Dan Minnegan, present Athletic Director, Towson participates in seven intercollegiate sports. Varsity track, soccer and cross country are all supervised by Minnegan.

The T.S.T.C. Campus has an athletic field, several tennis courts and a gymnasium, seating approximately 1100 people.

Throughout the years, Loyola has been closely allied with the Golden Knights of Towson, competing against them in all seven intercollegiate sports.

Although the records at Loyola are incomplete with regard to the various sports in which the schools have met, Larry Hart, Loyola's Sports Publicity Director, states that Towson has never defeated Loyola in basketball.

No regular season game is scheduled this year, but the teams may meet in the Mason-Dixon tournament, March 3-5.

Larry D'Orazio, Loyola 147-pound wrestler grapples with the Steve Clem of Towson Teachers. Larry won this match 8-1 but Loyola lost the meet by a score of 20-14.

Winless Hounds Enter Wrestling Tournament

The Mason-Dixon Wrestling Tournament will be held this Friday and Saturday at Towson State Teachers College. Larry D'Orazio, Paul Burke, Paul Flynn and Les Purcell should be the Hounds' chief contenders.

Loyola's Wrestling Team ran its losing string to five straight by dropping a close match to Towson State Teachers, 20-14, and a not-so-close match to Western Maryland, 23-6. The Hounds, looking for their initial win of the campaign, put up quite a scrap at Towson before losing by six points. The Golden Knights' lightweights had pinned both Jack Small and Tom Doud in the second and third periods respectively before Paul Burke, Loyola's captain, won a decision, 5-2.

D'Orazio Wins

Imitating Burke, Larry D'Orazio decisioned Rohr of Towson, 8-1. Jack McCann and John Votta, however, were both pinned in the second period. The Hounds' veteran 177 pounder, Paul Flynn, grappled Holdifer for nine minutes to gain a 3-0 shut-out while Les Purcell pinned the giant 285 pound heavyweight, Hundertmark.

The Hounds fared less well against Western Maryland. The Terrors whipped every Loyola man except Burke and Flynn. Small, McCann and D'Orazio lost on decisions, while Doud, Klebe and Purcell were pinned.

Hopkins Wins

Johns Hopkins won its second straight Mason-Dixon Conference wrestling match by defeating Loyola College 28-8 on the Hounds mat.

The Blue Jays won six of the eight bouts, one by default and four by pins in handing the Green and Grey its sixth conference setback.

Paul Burke, Loyola's 137 pound captain, pinned Bob LeSchak in the second period, and Paul Flynn decisioned Mike Cadwell, 5-0, in the 177 pound class.

Doud Pinned

Lou Rutland, defending Mason-Dixon champion in the 127 pound class, kept his perfect record intact by pinning Tom Doud in 52 seconds. Jack Small lost by default when he cut his heel and was unable to continue. This cut required four stitches.

Other Hounds counted out were Jerry Klebs, Brian Varacalle, and Les Purcell. Larry D'Orazio lost a 5-0 decision.

Kelly Needed

In the tournament that is coming up next Friday and Saturday, Loyola's only possibility will be Vince Kelly. If the big fellow can be reinstated by the Dean's Office, it will be almost a sure fact that the Hounds will win in the weight class in which Vince wants to wrestle. Vince now wrestles for the Y.M.C.A.

Olympians Defeat Fiascos; Donohue Leads Ping Pong

The second week of intramural basketball saw the highly favored Olympians edge the Five Fiascos, 32-29. Although the Fiascos were leading by seven points late in the first half, the superior rebounding of Tom McLaughlin and the sharp shooting of Dick Sharoun pulled the game out for the Olympians despite the stellar defensive efforts of "Midget" Bryan and Gene Settler.

The Draft Dodgers were eliminated by the Regimentals, 52-35. Don Turnbaugh led the team to victory after its two-point defeat last week by the Fiascos. Jim Donohue was high scorer for the Draft Dodgers, with twenty-one.

Faculty Wins

In another game, the height of Captain Loren Patterson was too much for the sophomore Southern Gents as they lost to the Faculty Five, 33-25. The 6'4" West Pointer scored twenty-three points.

Two freshman teams lost as the Rex Ramblers beat the Moles, 24-16, and the Rambling Rebels won over the Rinky Dinks, 39-29.

Rosen Sinks 20 of 25 Fouls

In the foul-shooting tournament, Bernie Rosen bettered his first round score by two baskets as he made twenty of twenty-five shots in the second round.

Jim Donohue, last year's champion, again entered the ping-pong finals by edging Tom Vavrina 21-18, 22-24, and 23-21. Donohue will play Ken Adams.

Streaks Win

In their first game of the season, the Streaks downed the faculty by a score of 38-30. The defending champs had unexpected trouble from an upset minded faculty crew led by Capt. Patterson and Mr. Colimore. However, as the game wore on, the Faculty wore down and by the start of the final period, it was a tried team to face the Streaks. Jim Young led the scoring with nine points.

Cardinals Lose

Rex Ramblers, from the senior class, downed the Freshman Cardinals by a score of 37-27. Mart Conneely, Jack Burke and Frank Vonasek paced the Ramblers in their victory.

In the games, performed at the latter part of the week, the Rambling Rebels ramble over the Freshmen Rinky-Dinks 39-29. Although Bill McKenna had a good day along with his teammates Tom Sullivan and Bob O'Connor, the Seniors, led by Bill Sturm, Joe Miko and Bob Parent went on to outscore and win over the Freshmen.

Rebels Win

The Rambling Rebels continued their winning streak the next day as they triumphed over the Rex Ramblers 42-37. The two Senior teams battled right down to the finish with the Rebels finally pulling five points ahead for a victory.

Gents Eliminated

Five Fiascos, a sophomore team, eliminated another sophomore five as they came from behind to beat the Southern Gents 48-36. The Fiascos had to apply a full court press to overcome the four point lead which the Southern Gents held at half-time. Bryan, Settler and Coyle scored 12 each, while Bob Cadigan led the scoring for the Gents with 10.

The intramural bowling league is dwindling, since many of the teams have dropped out.

GREYHOUND SPORTS

by Jim Cole, Sports Editor

Tomorrow a week, what is probably the year's biggest sports attraction will begin at Loyola. This is the Mason-Dixon Conference Basketball Tournament. There will be four straight games on that day in which such teams as Loyola, Roanoke, Baltimore U. and Hampden-Sydney will be featured. Last year's defending champion, Mt. St. Mary's College, will also be back. If you like basketball, why not come out and see four good games? Whether you like basketball or not, you should positively be there each successive night to cheer on our Hounds in their bid to dethrone that team from Emmitsburg which would like so much to defeat Loyola. Student books will not be honored for these postseason games. Tickets are only eighty-five cents, and may be purchased either in the athletic office or from Bill McElroy in the Bookstore.

Strong Bench

One of the main reasons for the excellent record posted by Loyola's basketball team so far this year is the fact that it has a very strong bench. A championship team is not made up of just two, three or even five good players. It must have that extra added depth to which it can have recourse at any time during the game. This fact has been very well proved by both the Milwaukee Hawks and the Philadelphia Warriors in the N.B.A. These teams have the four top scorers in the league, but each is last in its respective division. Loyola's squad is very well balanced. Coach Lefty Reitz has employed many different starting lineups during the season, and has used the strong bench to its fullest advantage. The team, as a whole, and especially the bench, will be put to its biggest test of the season next week in the tournament. Teams not so well blessed as Loyola will find it most difficult to keep at their best over that rough three day grind. Here's hoping that the use of this bench will help the team to emerge victorious in that tournament and add another trophy to its already well-stocked case in the gym.

Lacrosse Begins

We are now deep in the month of February, and winter sports have just about been completed. Besides basketball, post-season tournaments in swimming and wrestling will soon be coming up. However, the big news now comes from Florida where some of the major league teams have started spring training. At Loyola, the major spring sports have either begun or are in the preparatory stages. Lacrosse practice opened Monday, February 14. Coach Charlie Wenzel was greeted with a large turnout of well over forty men. Season's prospects for this spring seem very bright, for the Hounds have lost only one man from last year's team. Although the 1954 edition of the 'crossers did not fare too well, they had the makings of a good squad. After an excellent start, in which they won three of their first four games, a mid-season slump hit the team, from which it never recovered.

Coach Wenzel is faced this year with one of the toughest lacrosse schedules in the school's history. The season opens Saturday, April 2, against Washington and Lee.

After this, on successive Saturdays, Loyola will play the Cavaliers of Virginia and the Terrapins of Maryland two of the top lacrosse teams in the country. In order to get his team in shape for these games, Coach Wenzel has arranged a tough scrimmage schedule.

Intramural basketball hits midseason, as Rex Ramblers defeat Freshmen Cardinals.

Basketball Tourney Again At Evergreen

Once again Evergreen will be the scene of the 1955 Mason-Dixon Basketball Tournament, which will feature the league's top eight teams. Already assured of a tournament berth are league-leading Mount Saint Mary's, Loyola, Roanoke, Hampden-Sydney and Baltimore University. The three remaining places are being sought after by Towson State Teachers, Hopkins, Bridgewater, Washington College and American University.

Loyola Favorite

The pre-tourney favorites loom as Loyola and Mount Saint Mary's.

This year's field looks to be about the best in some years with a probable 500 percentage needed to gain a berth. Another added feature will be that each team is sparked by an individual leader, including Jack Sullivan and Sal Angelo of Mt. St. Mary's; Pip Moyer, George Welsh and Charlie Malin of Baltimore University; Dave Foltz of Roanoke; the Pence brothers of Bridgewater; Reece Livingston of Towson, and Charlie McCullough and Jim Allenbaugh of Loyola.

Tickets On Sale

Athletic Director Lefty Reitz has said that tickets will again be on sale in advance at the Athletic Office in the Gym. Prices will be $1.25 for general admission and $.85 for student tickets; however, student tickets will not be sold on the night of the game. Since the tourney is run on a strictly non-profit basis, all proceeds, after traveling expenses and referees' wages, go to the Conference, announced Fr. Arthur.

Mr. Reitz has also urged that students buy their tickets early and support the Conference. He has also urged strong support of the Wrestling and Swimming tournaments to be held at Towson Teachers and American University respectively.
